Many Prizes Will Be Awarded At Littlestown Cooking School Tonight; More Than 500 At First Session; Television Set, Prize

More than 500 women from Littlestown and vicinity attended the first of the two Gettysburg Times cooking schools in St. Aloysius hall Monday night, in spite of the inclement weather. A much larger crowd is expected tonight.

Those who braved the heavy rain were well repaid in the lectures and demonstrations of food preparation and of food and home products given by Mrs. Mabel Bowen, noted home economist.

Mrs. Bowen was in charge of The Gettysburg Times cooking school in Gettysburg April 18, 19 and 20, which attracted approximately 4,800 persons for the three nights, a new record for the 20 years of Times cooking schools.

She will also be in charge of the "Upper Community" school in the Memorial auditorium at the South Mountain fairgrounds near Arendtsville Thursday and Friday evenings.

27 Merchants Cooperate

Mrs. Bowen was assisted Monday night by Miss M. Elizabeth Howells, home economics director for the Adams and York county Metropolitan Edison company, and Miss Martha Strausbaugh, Gettysburg. They will assist Mrs. Bowen again tonight at Littlestown and on Thursday and Friday nights at the fair grounds.

Twenty-nine merchants and business firms are cooperating with The Gettysburg Times Littlestown cooking school. Twenty large baskets and bags of food and home products were given away at the close of the school Monday night, and 20 more will be awarded tonight. In addition, at tonight's closing Littlestown session, many valuable special awards will be given away, in addition to gifts of valuable food products.

Eligible For Big Prize

Those attending the Littlestown sessions, as well as persons who attended the Gettysburg school and others who will be at the "Upper Community" school will all be eligible for the grand prize, a $279.50 television set, which will be given away Friday night at the fair grounds.

JOHNS HOPKINS PSYCHIATRIST IS ROTARY SPEAKER

"People who lack spiritual development break down because they do not have what it takes to give life real meaning," Dr. George G. Merrill, Baltimore psychiatrist on the staff of Johns Hopkins, told the local Rotary club Monday evening at its regular meeting in the YWCA.

Speaking on "Christianity and Psychiatry," the Baltimore physician, psychiatrist and Episcopal church deacon noted that "each individual is a number of persons. He is a physical person, and provided he has sufficient food, rest and freedom from disease, he becomes matured physically in his early twenties. He is also an intellectual person who passes through a number of stages from infancy, childhood and adolescence to maturity. Here the process of reaching maturity is much more difficult, and many do not completely mature mentally."

"Each person is also an emotional person, and as in the intellectual side, the emotions pass through a long period of development, a number of transitions, and again many people stick at various transition points along the way. We all know persons who remain emotionally infantile all of their lives."

Face Eventual Breakdown

"In addition each person has an ethical side, and a social side, which again develop through various stages until they reach maturity. Again many people fail to reach maturity. And lastly, and equally important, there is the spiritual person in each individual. Basically, the spiritual side, or religious part of a person, is his effort to relate himself to something greater than himself, his effort to find out why he is here, how he fits into the universe. And like the intellectual, emotional, social and ethical sides, many do not reach maturity spiritually."

"Those who do not reach maturity in all phases, whose personalities are out of balance, because they have reached maturity in some phases and not in others, persons who cannot get along with themselves, others and with God, will

Gettysburg Lions' Show, "Tune Time," Pleases Big Audience; To Repeat Tonight

Gettysburg Lions and dozens of guest performers cavorted across the Gettysburg high school stage Monday evening with the initial performance of another stage success for the benefit of the service club's charity fund.

Playing before a capacity house, the clubmen shared the applause with their director, John Sherwood Clubley, as the curtain was rung down on the grand finale after more than two hours of songs, dances, minstrel melodies and blackface comedy.

The show, "Tune Time," will be repeated this evening at 8:15 o'clock by the same cast in the school auditorium. The final performance will be presented Wednesday evening at the same hour.

From the time the curtain opened on the first chorus of dancing girls until the entire company joined in "So Long Folks," the cast of more than 100 Lions, Beta Sigma Phi sorority girls, high school students and other guest performers kept the entertainment rolling.

The audience and the cast, too, seemed to have the most fun with the second act when three score singing Lions—with six end men in blackface—put on a minstrel show that has become a tradition of the annual Lions' performance.

Six Endmen Perform

Nine solo selections by the endmen and three other members of the minstrel circle and a number by the Lions club quartet brought continual calls for encores that reached a high point while Johnny Millard sang "Swanee" and the cast of college professors, attorneys, office executives and other familiar figures in Gettysburg business and professional life stepped "high, wide

FOUR OF FAMILY FOUND GUILTY IN COURT TODAY

Mrs. Mollie Harbaugh, her husband, Harry Harbaugh, and brothers, George and John Sell, all of Fairfield R. 1, were all found guilty of contributing to the delinquency of a minor by an Adams county jury this morning.

The jury heard most of the testimony in the case Monday afternoon. Arguments by attorneys and the charge of the court were given this morning before the jury retired at 1:25 o'clock to start its deliberations. It returned with its verdict 40 minutes later.

Civil Cases Next

With the conclusion of the case against the Sells and the Harbaughs the county court adjourned until Wednesday morning when it will begin hearing civil cases.

Elmer E. Boyd, Jr., York, pleaded guilty Monday afternoon to a morals charge thus bringing to an end the number of criminal cases scheduled for jury action.

Clarence Cookson Sheely, Littlestown, charged with assault and battery, had previously pleaded guilty as had Richard Fichtel, Philadelphia, charged with carrying a firearm without a permit.

Officials Testify

The case against the Harbaughs and Sells featured a parade of county officials. Sheriff Dorsey Shultz, Probation Officer C. Arthur Brame and Mrs. Elizabeth Bollinger, court matron, were among those who took the stand to tell how they visited the Harbaughs and Sells in search of a 14-year-old Gettysburg girl. They said they had been told that the girl had been there and left, that they searched the Sell and Harbaugh homes and failed to find the girl. Later the girl called state police here and was picked up by State Policeman George Ackerson and Sheriff Schultz. The girl, a ward of the court, had been missing from Saturday until Monday before county officials were notified by her then frantic mother and started the search.

"Hid" From Authorities

Mr. and Mrs. Harbaugh, the Sell brothers and Mrs. Lulu Thompson testified for the defense. They held that the girl had visited the Harbaughs, that she had told them that her mother knew where she was and said that at the girl's request they had taken her to see about employment. They claimed that it was during the visits by the county officials and police that the girl was either with Mr. and Mrs. Harbaugh in search of employment, or had already left the Harbaugh home.

The girl herself, on the stand, said she had gone to the Harbaugh home and stayed there because she did not like the boy she had drive her there. She added that when the officials came for her George Sell told her to hide "because the police will send you away to an institution." She described going to another place "to hide" while police and the sheriff were at the Sells.

One of the three civil cases scheduled for the current term has been continued to a later term of court because of the illness of one of the material witnesses. The case is an action in assumpsit brought by Andrew Paper House of York against Thomas M. Bross, Jr., trading as Winter Gardens, New Oxford.

Scheduled for trial are the action in replevin without bond brought by L. P. Kooker and J. L. Paisant, of Baltimore, versus Henry U. Wagner, Butler township, and the action in trespass brought by John P. Baker, Jr., East Berlin R. 1, against Donald F. Rider, Hanover.

DEDICATE NEW ALTAR SUNDAY

A new altar was dedicated "to the glory of God" by the Rev. Wallace E. Fisher at the Sunday morning service in Christ Lutheran church.

The altar, an emblem reminder of the presence of God, is built of American walnut. The mensa is supported by four fluted pillars, representative of the four Gospels. On the front of the altar there are three panels symbolic of the Trinitarian God. In the center panel is the symbol of Jesus, the Alpha and Omega.

On the mensa there are five white crosses inlaid in the wood reminiscent of the five wounds of the Redeemer. The mensa is built to hold the sacramental vessels and the missal stand, supporting the Service Book, containing the Word. The retable is designed to hold the sacramental candles and flowers. The throne in the center is surrounded by the cross.

In the reredos are six large panels symbolic of creation to which is added a seventh above the throne. Seven is the number of completeness or perfection.

This altar is the gift of Dr. and Mrs. Harvey D. Hoover.

SENATORS' AGE CONTINUES TO JINX RED SOX

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

What strange power does Washington's Red Sox hold over the Boston Red Sox?

Joe McCarthy, Boston's puzzled manager, would give half his salary to find out. Tom Yawkey, the Red Sox' wealthy owner, went even further than that. He reportedly offered the Senators $200,000 and two players for the pitcher's services, just so that his club won't have to face him. He was turned down.

And no wonder. Scarborough, just another pitcher to the rest of the American league clubs, is Christy Mathewson, Walter Johnson and Cy Young rolled into one when he comes face to face with the hard-hitting Red Sox. He thrives on them.

In six seasons in the big leagues, the 32-year-old righthander has won only 38 games and lost 43 to the six other clubs. Against the Red Sox, he boasts a gaudy 10-5 record. No other New York Yankees offered six players for him recently.

Scarborough met up with the Red Sox for the first time this season last night. He proceeded to shut them out, 3-0. Three hits were all the power-laden crew could get off his offerings and all were made by one player—Al Zarilla, who rapped out two doubles and a single. Three others reached base by bases on balls.

Repeats History
Only once before in the major leagues has a player collected all three of his team's hits. That was all the way back in 1910 when Jimmy Sheekard of the Chicago Cubs made three against Harry Gaspar of the Cincinnati Reds. And the Cubs won the game, 1-0.

The Red Sox-Washington game marked the first time Scarborough has faced Joe McCarthy's team since he beat them, 2-1, last September 28. The defeat knocked them from undisputed possession of first place into a deadlock with the Yankees. It eventually proved the margin of defeat as the Yankees won the pennant by one game. Exactly a year before—September 28, 1948—Scarborough pitched a 4-2 triumph over the Sox. That loss cost them the '48 flag.

The Senators scored all their runs in the eighth. Until then Al Papi had kept pace with Scarborough, holding the Nats to four hits. Then Washington tallied three times without getting the ball out of the infield.

As if losing the game wasn't enough, the Sox may have lost the services of Dom DiMaggio for an indefinite period. The brilliant center-fielder was forced to leave the game with a stiff right leg after the fourth inning. Ted Williams, recovering from a siege of the grippe, was back in uniform but was still too weak to play.

Lanier Blanks Reds
Another masterful pitching performance was turned in by Max Lanier, veteran spitball hurler of the St. Louis Cardinals. The pardoned Mexican league jumper threw a four-hitter at Cincinnati last night in defeating the Reds, 1-0. Ken Raffensberger, who holds two 1-hit shutout victories over the Redbirds, was the unfortunate loser.

Lanier was the whole show. He not only fanned seven Redlegs but drove in the lone run of the game with a double.

Brooklyn defeated the Boston Braves, 6-4, in the National league's only other game, scoring the winning runs in the seventh inning on a wild throw by Catcher Del Crandall. The youthful catcher threw the ball into left field attempting to pick Duke Snider off third and both Snider and Carl Furillo scored.

Dick Donovan, making his first start in the majors, was the loser. Don Newcombe was credited with his first victory although he needed help from Willard Ramsdell in the ninth.

Rain and wet grounds wiped out the rest of the major league schedule.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, April 25 (AP)—A few years ago, when college sports leaders from the north and south were exchanging hot words over such subjects as recruiting football players and paying them subsidies, bald-headed Bill Alexander of Georgia Tech arose and identified himself as "the oldest recruiter in the room."

Then he proceeded to tell them a few facts about the disputed points and to point out how silly some of the arguments were getting. Maybe he didn't convince anybody, but he left them laughing and soothed a lot of ruffled feelings.

That's just one reason why Coach Alex's death left a void that can't be filled.

Universally liked and respected Coach Alex could check the petty bickering that developed and keep the southeastern group working together on a common-sense plane.

Even those who disagreed with him recognized his fundamental honesty and frankness and a lot of the south's strength in the "sanity code" debates lay in that recognition.

When we saw Coach Alex sunning himself in front of the Georgia Tech Gym a few weeks ago, he looked ill and tired; some of the old spark seemed to be gone.

But we figured when the words began to fly again, Alexander would be in there pitching his share.

Our skins. We can proceed with the full confidence that, should worse come to worst—America is fully capable of coping with any danger which can arise.

Power And Security
Now of course this doesn't mean that we shouldn't be prepared up to the hilt for war. We must always keep that "balance of power" which the democracies have to maintain for security. We also must recognize that the way to handle aggression is to knock it in the teeth.

Our attitude towards aggressive acts therefore is of vital importance, especially now when the Muscovites appear bent on testing how far the western powers will go in defending their rights and dignity. We see this in the shooting down of our airmen by a Soviet plane into the icy waters of the Baltic—in the numerous Moscow-inspired incidents among the satellites—in the Russian challenge over Trieste—in the Red demands on Iran with her rich oil fields, and on Turkey regarding the control of the Dardanelles.

The authoritative opinion in Washington is that the Russians can't want to risk war but they will go as far as they can without running a real danger of another conflict. They hope to bully us into concessions.

LOOP REJECTS NEW APPLICANT

The application of Muhlenberg Township high school, seeking admission to the Football Conference of the Roses, was rejected at the league's annual spring meeting in Columbia Monday.

A vote of 7 to 3 was cast against the bid for admission because of geographical considerations. Muhlenberg Township is located east of Reading. The 10 schools comprising the Conference of the Roses are located in Lancaster, York and Adams counties. They include: Elizabethtown, Ephrata, Lititz, Manheim Borough, Manheim Township, Biglerville, Red Lion, West York, Columbia and Palmyra.

A proposal to count six games as the minimum number of games required by each team to be eligible for championship honors was also defeated. The present system calls for a minimum of five games.

Charles Yost, principal of Biglerville high, presided.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

RE ADEQUATE

As we get on in life we begin to think most seriously as to our worth to the world. Are we fulfilling our mission, in being privileged a life here? Are we allowing the years to outrun our ability and opportunity to serve in the highest capacity?
Are we making of these opportunities that face us every day of our lives a waste?

What is that standard by which we can adequate live, learn, and love? My dictionary gives as the definition of adequate: "Equal to what is required; suitable to the case or occasion; fully sufficient." I like those last two words of the definition best—"fully sufficient."

Before Clark Poling left for Europe, as a chaplain, he asked his father not to pray for his safety or return—for there would be many who would not be safe or who would not return—but just to pray that he might prove "adequate." A very wonderful request. Well, as all know, he did not return, but he fulfilled the definition of that word by being "fully sufficient," in giving his life as a sacrifice, with three other chaplains, who went down with the torpedoing of the S.S. Dorchester in the north seas, after each had done what he could in helping others to safety and giving up his own life belt.

If each day of our lives we could prove adequate—fully sufficient—by doing what might be placed before us, in the best way we know, we could dismiss all worry, or concern, as to the upshot of our life. We then would serve well, and learn one of the secrets to peace, power and happiness.

How much more glorious and satisfactory to be adequate in what we do, and as a human being, than to hope, or work, for fame or wealth.
I could ask for no other quality in a friend than to know that he would be adequate under all circumstances.
I, too, would like to word this as my daily prayer—to prove adequate under every duty and emergency.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Newness."

Just Folks

By EDGAR A. GUEST

AIRROGANCE

Some men to whom is much allowed
Of wealth and fame, grow over-proud.
Head high, chests blown, they strut about.
Their least commands they loudly shout.

But, they forget—a blunder grave—
Good luck lets no one misbehave.

Their money proves that they are shrewd
But grants no privilege to be rude.
The richer is the man, then he
The gentler, kinder ought to be.
For wealth bestows on none the right
To be to others impolite.

My boy, earn all the wealth you can,
But gently treat your fellow man.
Should fortune smile on you, be glad
And grateful for the luck you've had,
But long remember what I've said:
For what you win don't lose your head.

CHARGES OF
'DECEPTION'
HURLED IN GOP

(By The Associated Press)
Two candidates from opposing factions in the Republican primary election of May 16 have advanced charges of "deception" by their opponents.

Jay Cooke, gubernatorial candidate, charged last night that the Duff-Fine ticket is trying to make state employees believe that the GOP State committee will get a portion of their campaign contributions.

Gov. James H. Duff, seeking nomination for the Senate, meanwhile at Altoona accused the Grundy-Owlett faction of handing out "false propaganda" regarding the spending of state funds during his administration.

James Speaks

Cooke is opposing John S. Fine and Judge Charles S. Williams for Governor, while Duff is out to defeat
John C. Kunkel, in the Senatorial race. Both Cooke and Kunkel have the backing of Joseph R. Grundy, former Senator, and G. Mason Owlett, GOP national committee-man.

In Philadelphia, still a third speaker, former Gov. Arthur H.
James predicted that victory for the Duff-Fine ticket on May 16 "would drag the Republican party down to inevitable and humiliating and disastrous defeat" in the November elections.

James, who served as the state's chief executive from 1939 to 1943, said "Duff has been clubbing state employees into line with the threat that heads will roll. . . . Those are the words of Adolf Hitler. . . . Republicans awake. Are you going to back those who have in mind the Hitlerizing of your party?"

Cooke's statement charged that receipts going out for payments to the Duff-Fine election fund are a "deliberate duplication" of the standard receipts for contributions used by the Republican State committee.

Assails False Propaganda

"This duplication is very deliberate and very intentional," he said.
"It is another of the studied efforts made to cause state employees to believe that the Republican state committee is to get a portion of these funds."

Speaking over a statewide radio network, Gov. Duff said: "There is a ding-dong every day on the radio and in the public press by the Grundy-Owlett old guard telling the people how wasteful the present administration has been. Now the vicious thing about this propaganda is that it is false. They know it is false. Yet they are willing to repeat it for the purpose of deceiving the people who do not know the facts."

Duff said expenditures have merely been for the purpose of furnishing service to the people which they cannot render for themselves.

Says Railroads Fight 130-Mile Conveyor

Pittsburgh, April 25 (AP) — An Ohio industrialist said today railroads are trying to stop plans for a 130-mile chain of belts that would move coal and iron ore between Lake Erie and the steel mills.

In a speech prepared for the National Conference of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, Noel R. Michell, secretary of River-lake Belt Conveyor Lines, Inc., asserted the plan will come before the Ohio legislature next year.

Briefly, the project would be a two-way system of endless belts between East Liverpool and Lorain, O., with spurs linking it with Youngstown and Cleveland. It is the brain child of the Akron, Canton, and Youngstown railroad.

Michell, who is also industrial vice president of the A. C. and Y., said the conveyor would cost an estimated $210,000,000, would take 20 years to pay for itself, and would save its users twenty to forty-five million dollars a year in transportation costs.

break down when the storms of

"Thus psychiatry and religion touch closely. The psychiatrist, in dealing with his patients, is vitally interested in their religious development, just as he is interested in their physical, intellectual, emotional, ethical and social development. And the psychiatrist likes to feel, too, that he can be a help to religion in its everyday job of helping and counseling people."

"The number of people who have not developed along all lines is tremendous, and is a source of concern to the state, which wants to support as few persons as possible in its institutions. That the problem is vitally important is shown by the fact that there are more people in mental institutions than in all other hospitals combined. And we are all concerned, because we are interested in our community and our civilization."

"And in developing well rounded people we can't get very far without religion. Religion by helping us find our relationship to God helps us find our relationship with the rest of the children of God. So religion is at the heart of things, no matter what we are doing."

Dr. C. Harold Johnson introduced the speaker. Fifty-five attended the meeting at which President William G. Weaver presided.

EISENHOWER TO UMP DEBATE ON WELFARE STATE

Washington, April 25 (AP)—Pioneers of the 1952 Eisenhower-for-President movement get a chance this week to observe their favorite in action on a politically touchy subject—"the welfare state."

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, president of Columbia university and presently non-committal on politics, will umpire an argument between Democratic Senators Douglas of Illinois and Byrd of Virginia on the subject "American democracy and the welfare state."

The occasion will be the annual meeting of the academy of political science in New York Wednesday.

Eisenhower, mentioned as a Republican presidential possibility in 1952, will sum up pro arguments, offered by Douglas, and the con, offered by Byrd. The general's words will be recorded carefully for some hint as to his possible future intentions.

Wants Freedom Preserved

In the past, Eisenhower has made it pretty plain he hasn't much patience with those who would surrender individual freedom just to gain security. He has argued against centralizing power in Washington.

Typical quotes:

"If all Americans want is security, they can go to prison."

"We want to wear fine shirts, have caviar and champagne when we should be eating hot dogs and beer."

"If an American wants to preserve his dignity and his equality as a human being he must not bow his neck to any dictatorial government."

Politicians figure the Eisenhower-for-President drive will have to get along for some time—if not forever—without help from the general.

He has said repeatedly that he has no political ambitions, no political connections and doesn't want any.

Pa. To Build Fire School At Lewistown

Harrisburg, April 25 (AP)—A new $385,000 Pennsylvania state firemen's school will be built at Lewistown to train fire fighters, the general state authority announced today.

The new school, which will teach firemen the most modern fire fighting methods, was approved by the 1949 General Assembly.

The authority estimated an average of 45 firemen will receive training at one time, once the new school is completed. Regular classes will be held April-October, permitting the training of hundreds of volunteer firemen.

Up to $65,000 of the allocation for the new school will be spent on fire-fighting equipment, while another $20,000 was earmarked for laboratory apparatus and office and maintenance equipment.

San Francisco, April 25 (AP)—An Air Force sergeant goes to trial May 15 on charges that he strangled and assaulted Sgt. Fairy Decker, 44-year old woman's air force member, of York, Pa. The date for the trial of Lyle H. Bushnell, formerly of Rutland, Vt., was set yesterday.

Black Ian Walks Again

By Florence Kerrigan

Chapter 16
"When I felt myself going," said Steve, "I instinctively clutched with both hands, and there is a ledge wide enough for me to pull myself onto while I caught my breath. It was my flash you heard going down. Fortunately I still had my revolver, but I had a few mad moments when I found I was lying on it. I was afraid he would throw you both over before I could get to my knees and pull myself up. And when your light flashed on me, it was a fortunate thing that he was not looking that way and you had presence of mind enough to turn it off immediately. By the way, Hugh, you'd better dim it down now or put it out altogether. We don't want the battery to fail while we're still here in the passageway with a wounded man. The cliff is a regular ant-hill of passages and we could wander for days."

Darkness descended upon us as I obediently turned off the light. Greg's voice came to us softly.
"Iris—beloved—I don't believe you ever cared much for me. But I have always loved you. You know that, don't you?"

"That held me here, Greg. Nothing else could have—but that."

"Hugh, be good to her and make her happy. There was a time I would have given anything to make Iris happy. And sometimes still in my decent moments, I love her in the same way. But those moments are getting fewer and fewer and now—"

Iris' voice had a yearning throb in it. "Greg, don't try to move! We'll try to get you out of this—take you away to recover—and forget—"

"You almost tempt me, he said, sadly. 'No, do not stop me. This is one of my decent moments, and I love you so much I'm going to do the only thing I can. Iris darling—Hugh, loyal friend—God bless you both!'"

We didn't realize that there in the dark he had squirmed so close to the edge, until he went over it with an involuntary cry. Careless of the flash battery now, I turned the light on the chasm and the waters below. I could see nothing below us but the rock walls and the glistening threat of water. There was a wet line slightly above it on the cliffside. The tide was going out.

"It is better that way," said Steve as Iris wept heartbrokenly in my arms. "We'd better get her to her room as soon as we can and send for a doctor. Then—I'd suggest going away for a time."

"I've got to know," said Iris. "I can't stand it if I don't. Was Greg actually Ian at the end?"

"No," said Steve. "At first he was just overly interested in the traditions and family background of the castle. Ian had always appealed to him because of his romantic life and because there was, as you both noticed, a slight resemblance. That interest became too concentrated, and that, together with other reading he had been doing, played on his high-strung nature and unbalanced him mentally."

"But both Hugh and I saw Ian!"

"You thought you did," said Steve.

"In both cases you woke out of a sound sleep and Greg must have been an expert hypnotist. He not only hypnotized you so that you saw what he wanted you to see, but he also hypnotized himself into the belief that he was actually dominated by the spirit of Black Ian!"

We had brought Iris back to her room, and the doctor had given her a sedative and departed.

Steve and I were talking it over in the library.

"I'm afraid I gave you a rough time of it," Steve apologized. "As I said, I didn't know you, and Greg handed me pretty much the same line about you that you handed me about him. You know—old school friends, hating to suspect you, but for Iris' sake, and so on. Then when he showed me the broken cufflink in Malcolm's hand, and the revolver was found in your room—"

"It wasn't my revolver, incidentally," I broke in.

"And he pointed out that there had been no murders until you came—"

"Except the first man that Lansing was investigating," I said.

"Yes, except that one who after all hadn't been proved killed here and washed out to sea."

"So it was only hypnotism after all," I said after a silence. "Something of a disappointment for you, isn't it?"

"I don't know," smiled Steve. "I have still to find a case which is really supernatural! When I do find one—if I do—my reach will be over, and then what will I do for a hobby?"

Of course, Hugh, after a decent interval you'll marry Iris. How about bringing her over to America for a honeymoon? I'd be glad to put my summer place in the Adirondacks at your disposal for as long as you like."

"I'll probably take you up on that. Right now—well—Greg was my friend. Later on, perhaps—and don't forget there's a little matter of a police investigation to be faced in the morning. I should say, later this morning!"

"There'll be nothing to that," he smiled. "Don't worry about it."

"I am worrying about it," I smiled back, "and I hope you're a good prophet—on both counts!"

As it turned out, he was a good prophet, and on both counts!

RED GUERRILLAS SWARMING NEAR HAINAN CAPITAL

By SPENCER MOOSA

Taipei, Formosa, April 25 (AP)—Red guerrillas, penned for months in the rugged Five Finger mountains of Hainan island, swarmed today within four miles of Yulin, Nationalist escape gate of the southern coast. (A Hong Kong press report said Nationalists had evacuated emergency army and navy headquarters at Yulin.)

The guerrillas were spurred by the collapse of Chinese Nationalist troops in the face of numerically inferior Communist forces who stormed ashore nine days ago.

The Nationalists, possibly 125,000 strong, cracked under the pressure of some 15,000 veteran Communist fighters and the threat of 60,000 guerrillas at their rear.

They fled on Saturday from Hoi-how, the capital where only the day before they had staged a victory celebration. The Communists entered peacefully Sunday morning.

Pour Men, Weapons In

A general on Hainan said Chiang Kai-shek had ordered the island abandoned. This was denied here, but there were reliable indications the report was true.

It appeared the decision to pull out was carried to Nationalist commanders Thursday by Gen. Chen Chi-tang, the island governor. Chen had been summoned to Formosa.

Communications with Hainan were virtually cut off. It appeared the evacuation of top leaders was in progress.

(Meanwhile, Red Gen. Lin Piao poured more men and heavy weapons across the 10-mile Hainan Strait, said Chinese press reports in Hong Kong. The Communists no longer faced the dread fire of Nationalist air and surface craft in crossing the strait. That, like Nationalist hopes of defending the island, was gone.)

REASSURANCES BY TRUMAN FAIL TO IMPRESS GOP

By JACK BELL

Washington, April 25 (AP)—President Truman's assertion that Communists at home aren't a great threat to this country offered general reassurance but Republican critics didn't seem to be impressed.

In a speech to present and former government lawyers, broadcast to the nation, Mr. Truman said last night: "There is no area of American life in which the Communist party is making headway—except in the deluded minds of some people."

Senators Wherry of Nebraska, the GOP leader, Brewster (R-Me.), Ferguson (R-Mich.) and Mundt (R-SD), went ahead with their demands for a broadened investigation of State Department workers and former employees, whereas Mr. Truman stated, "Not a single person who had been adjudged to be a Communist or otherwise disloyal remains on the government payroll today."

"Hard To Understand" Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.) commented that "this apparent indifference to the greatest threat ever faced by this nation is impossible to understand." McCarthy has been charging that the State Department is a haven for Communists.

The President told the Federal Bar association in his speech: "We know the greatest threat to us does not come from Communists in this country, where they are a noisy but small and universally despised group. The greatest threat comes from communism abroad, where the center of its military and economic strength lies."

"The real danger is that communism might overrun other free nations and thus strengthen itself for an ultimate attack on us."

Although the President spoke of the government's loyalty program as "an outstanding success," a Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee prepared to check the operations of the State Department's security division. Senators Green (D-R.I.) and Lodge (R-Mass.) are expected to travel to Europe later to complete the inquiry abroad.

Hearing Scheduled

The full subcommittee, headed by Senator Tydings (D-Md.), called Louis F. Budenz, former Communist and now a Fordham university professor, before it in a closed session for further testimony on the case of Owen Lattimore.

Lattimore, far eastern expert and a professor at Johns Hopkins university, has been accused by Senator McCarthy of being a Soviet spy. He has denied these charges vigorously, as well as Budenz' statement that Lattimore was a member of a Communist cell in the Institute of Pacific Relations.

At a public hearing (7 p. m., EST), the Tydings committee arranged to hear three witnesses on the Lattimore charges.

SHOTGUN STOPS PIPELINE CREW

Lancaster, Pa., April 25 (AP)—Construction crews working on the 1,840-mile, 30-inch pipeline of the Transcontinental Gas Pipeline company looked down the muzzle of a shotgun in the hands of an irate Lancaster county farmer.

The workers fell back but quick as farmer F. Preston Lefevre stood firm by the three farm vehicles he had placed in the path of the advancing bulldozers yesterday.

Sheriff Abe Lane was summoned. Lane talked to Lefevre and other members of his family and then made a hurried call to John M. Ranck, county district attorney.

Ranck petitioned the county court for a temporary injunction and Lefevre withdrew his roadblock pending a hearing Saturday.

The farmer said he had been aroused by the fact the pipeline workers were planning to pass 100 feet closer to his farmhouse than the staked out right of way indicated.

of John J. Boughner, 58. Boughner was fatally injured when squeezed between a locomotive and crane. Mrs. Nora Boughner and her daughter, Elaine, charged the railroad with negligence. The accident occurred at the railroad's yards in Delano, Schuylkill county, last February 8.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

In Memoriam 3
In sad but loving remembrance of our dear mother, Mrs. Ida C. Starnier, who departed this life two years ago today, April 25, 1948.

"When the angels brought the message that our darling mother had gone, None but those who have lost one could our grief and sorrow know.
Friends may think we'll soon forget her, and our wounded hearts be healed,
But they little know the sorrow that within our hearts is concealed."

Sadly missed by all the children.

MOTHER KILLED ON HIGHWAY BY TWO MOTORISTS

Phoenixville, Pa., April 25 (P)—An attractive 40-year-old mother of three children was crushed to death on Sunday as she lay unconscious on the Pottstown-West Chester highway.

The victim was Mrs. Catherine Newman, who lived with her husband, Melvin, 39, and two of their three children in a tenant house on the estate of H. LaRue Frain, University of Pennsylvania faculty member, in Birchrunville, seven miles south of Pottstown.

Mrs. Newman was struck and killed by two automobiles after she left her home for Pottstown to buy a present for a newborn child of a nephew. State police said two pieces of the woman's undergarments were missing. Her body was so mutilated, however, that a preliminary examination failed to show whether she had been molested before her death.

"Positively Murder" State police quoted Newman as saying his wife's "only fault was her drinking. This is positively murder. Knowing my wife, I'm sure somebody must have tried to attack her. She put up such a fight they got mad and threw her out of a car."

Harry Kulcyki, 21, of Pottstown, Chester county, told investigators he found Mrs. Newman huddled about five feet from the edge of the highway. He said she was breathing, "gasping loud like she was hurt bad."

When he drove about 200 feet to an intersection to turn his car around, and return to the injured woman, he said, he saw another car approaching.

Hit By Second Car "This car was going about 30 miles an hour," Kulcyki said. "It ran over the woman and kept on going. I blinked my lights and yelled. Then he stopped."

R. Wallace Ed. 45, operator of a poultry farm near Pottstown, told investigators he was returning from Pottstown after picking up his wife, Evelyn, 44, who had been baby-sitting. Ed said he saw "this clump in the highway" and before he could apply his brakes "ran over it." Mrs. Newman was dragged about 35 feet under the Ed car.

Coroner Cooper T. Bishop said this probably killed Mrs. Newman. Kulcyki, instructing Ed to remain at the scene, drove to Pottstown to notify police and summon an ambulance. Soon after Kulcyki left for Pottstown, Ed reported another car, operated by Norwood Mentzer, of near Pottstown, struck Mrs. Newman's body and dragged it another 75 feet along the highway.
